

Accelerating Climate Action with Our Net Zero Readiness Assessment

Requirement for doing business

Large companies and business partners in supply chains are increasingly requesting evidence of climate action as a requirement of doing business.

The main driver is mandatory carbon and ESG reporting. Over 80% of emissions typically relate to a company's wider value chain (scope 3 emissions).

Companies are now choosing business partners based on their environmental credentials and carbon reduction actions. If you're unable to demonstrate climate action, you may risk losing clients.

How can we help?

Our specialist Net Zero Readiness Assessment can help you retain key clients and win tenders. We'll help you produce a bespoke pack of key documentation relating to climate action, including:

- An agreement to pledge voluntary GHG emission reduction targets for 2030 and 2050
- A compliant environmental policy statement and climate policy
- A Net Zero Route Map and action plan
- A programme of carbon literacy training for employees and managers.

Our Net Zero Readiness Assessment

1. First, we'll send you a climate change and environmental questionnaire to assess your current position.

2. After a site visit to discuss the key priorities for your business, we'll explain the options for making emission reduction targets. Our advice is in line with the Science-Based Targets initiative, the Carbon Trust, the SME Climate Hub commitment and Race to Net Zero pledges.

3. Following the site audit, we'll draft or improve appropriate corporate policies to demonstrate your commitments.

4. To help accelerate your path to Net Zero, we'll provide a Net Zero Route Map and action plan. This report will set out the legislative framework and reporting obligations and can be presented to senior management.

5. We'll deliver your first carbon literacy training session for up to 20 employees.

Pricing

The Net Zero package costs £5,000 plus VAT for SMEs with under 250 employees.
